About the ANLP

What is the ANLP?

The African Nutrition Leadership Programme (ANLP) is a leadership development and networking seminar aimed at assisting the development of future leaders in the field of human nutrition in Africa. Emphasis is placed on understanding the qualities and skills of leaders, team building, communication and nutrition information in a broader context, and to understanding the role of nutrition science in the world around us.

The eleventh of a series of seminars of the ANLP (See 1st announcement: August 2012) will run in South Africa, and follow-up courses are already being hosted in other African countries.

Who is the ANLP aimed at

The programme is designed for individuals who have experience in various fields of nutrition. Preference will be given to applicants with an advanced degree, postdoctoral fellows and candidates with comparable working experience in the broader human nutrition sciences, studying or working in Africa. We are also actively seeking applications from participants who are from francophone and lusophone countries.

Info about the 2013 seminar

The 11th of a series of seminars of the African Nutrition Leadership Programme (ANLP) will be held in South Africa from 10 - 20 March 2013 under the Directorship of Johann Jerling (North-West University, South Africa).

The venue of the ANLP 2013 seminar is the tranquil Elgro River Lodge situated on the banks of the Vaal River in the North West Province of South Africa. The venue iss selected to facilitate in networking and getting to know one another in an informal rustic atmosphere.

ANLP 2013

-

NFP Grant Application now online!

-

ANLP 2013 Online Application Form